2009 annual report

Dear Friends,

2009 marked not just our first full year at 2 Columbus Circle, but an entire year of extraordinary firsts for MAD. Among them: welcoming our 500,001st visitor to our new home; our first performing arts series, The Mix; our first film series, French New Wave Essentials, presented in collaboration with the Museum of the Moving Image; our first wine bar, MADCrush; our first satellite location for The Store at MAD; our first Family Day, celebrating our Upper West Side neighbors; and, of course, our first restaurant, Robert at MAD.

Other firsts deserve a special mention, among them our inaugural graduating class of ArtsLife interns—six young people who, thanks to Cathy Seligman and Bonnie Eletz, got an on-the-ground education in running a New York City museum in the summer of 2009—and our Open Studios, where daily, artists welcomed countless visitors who questioned, probed, and came to understand viscerally the connection between materials, making, and process.

2009 was also the first time MAD had operated at 2 Columbus Circle with nearly twice the annual expense budget that it had on West 53rd Street—in a faltering economy. We are proud that, because of the efforts of our untiring Board of Trustees and staff, we succeeded in finishing the year with a small operating surplus—and that we were able to stretch our resources to accommodate public demand by enhancing programming and even, remarkably, adding a sixth public opening day in 2009.

On our cover: MAD's education department produced an amazing variety of behind-the-scenes programs in 2009. From schoolchildren to seniors, and from our Open Studios to our ArtsLife Internships, all were welcome. For more information, see page 6.

Most exciting to each of us at MAD is the chance to bring the ever-changing world of contemporary arts and design to a new audience. Our online MADblog has been a particular hit. We've heard comments including, "it's so fun to be in this building that was such a mystery for New Yorkers for so many years;" "the encouraged interaction with the museum and its art is amazing," and, "as a long time fan of the Museum of Contemporary Crafts, then the American Craft Council, and now the Museum of Arts and Design, I wish you great success! The building and its renovation are smashing." Thank you to the hundreds of bloggers who complimented us on the visitor experience at 2 Columbus Circle—and to the hundreds of thousands of visitors who joined us, discovered us, or rediscovered us at 2 Columbus Circle in 2009.

As we move forward with our plans for 2010—including new and expanded programs to accommodate your needs—we extend our thanks especially to Barbara Tober, Chairman Emerita, and Nanette L. Laitman, former President of our Board of Trustees, for their remarkable and spirited leadership over the past years. Their unwavering commitment to MAD and to our mission is unmatched. We are grateful that we will continue to benefit from their counsel for many years to come.

We hope to see you at MAD soon.

Second Lives: Remixing the Ordinary

September 27, 2008–April 19, 2009

MAD's inaugural exhibition at 2 Columbus Circle—extended by popular demand—featuring work by 50 established and emerging artists from all five continents who created objects and installations from everyday functional goods.

Elegant Armor: The Art of Jewelry

September 27, 2008–July 5, 2009

Innovative pieces of contemporary art jewelry from our permanent collection, dating from the 1940s to the present. Works ranged from the subtle to the flamboyant, from the purely geometric to the organic, and from narrative to sculptural forms.

Permanently MAD: Revealing the Collection

September 27, 2008–ongoing

Permanently MAD, presented in MAD's collections galleries, showcases approximately 250 works at a time from our permanent collection of more than 2,200 objects.

Klaus Moje: Painting with Glass

April 29–September 20, 2009

Painting with Glass featured 68 objects by master artist Klaus Moje, including a new large-scale mural and many never-before-shown works from private collections.

1 Object Factory: The Art of Industrial Ceramics

May 6–September 13, 2009

Object Factory—showcasing 200 objects by 50 artists, designers, and industrial manufacturers from 18 nations—was the first major international survey of industrial ceramic production and contemporary ceramic products, designs, and art.

Gord Peteran: Furniture Meets its Maker

May 27–August 16, 2009

The first solo exhibition and monograph fully documenting the work of Canadian artist Gord Peteran, today's leading conceptual furniture maker.

GlassWear

July 15–September 20, 2009

Organized jointly by MAD and the Schmuckmuseum, Pforzheim, Germany, GlassWear showcased more than 120 imaginative and visually exciting glass works by 60 leading international jewelry artists.

Abraaj Capital Art Prize

August 26–October 7, 2009

The Prize encourages collaborations between contemporary artists from the Middle East, North Africa and South Asia (MENASA) and established and internationally acclaimed curators—bridging the gap between the Middle Eastern and Western art worlds and offering selected artists opportunities to realize ambitious art projects. In late 2009, the work of the first three winning teams was on view at MAD.

4 Slash: Paper Under the Knife

October 7, 2009–April 4, 2010

The third installment in MAD's Materials and Process series, Slash explored the rediscovery and use of traditional craft materials and techniques by an innovative group of international artists, who created works that were scissored, knife-cut, burned, torn, laser-cut, or shredded.

2 Read My Pins: The Madeleine Albright Collection

September 30, 2009–January 31, 2010

An exhibition of the distinctive brooches that became former Secretary of State Madeleine Albright's personal signature during and after her years in office—expressions of femininity, badges of individuality, and diplomatic tools for delivering messages to world leaders, politicians, the American public and beyond.

Totally Rad: Karim Rashid Does Radiators

March 4–May 17, 2009

The first MADprojects exhibition, showcasing the most exciting examples of new radiator design—30 beautifully crafted and intelligently conceived steam-heat designs in production today, each selected by leading industrial designer Karim Rashid.

3 Ghost Stories: New Designs from Nendo

October 27, 2009–January 10, 2010

A transformation by Canadian/Japanese design team Nendo of the MADProjects gallery into a magical landscape of new designs that imbued chairs, vases, and lamps with whimsy and optical illusion.

education ► OUTREACH PROGRAMS ARE A HALLMARK OF THE MAD EXPERIENCE. IN 2009, MAD'S EDUCATION DEPARTMENT EXPANDED ITS SIGNATURE OFFERINGS FOR CHILDREN, TEACHERS, YOUTH, FAMILIES, AND ADULTS, MAINTAINING MAD'S PROFILE AS AN EDUCATIONAL INSTITUTION FIRST AND FOREMOST. HIGHLIGHTS INCLUDED BELOW.

PROGRAMS FOR STUDENTS AND TEACHERS

4 MADlab K–12

MAD's flagship arts in education program served more than 7,500 students in 2009. The start of the 2009/2010 academic year saw a strong increase in the number of high school partnerships; a new Arts Access expansion program offered free standards-based workshops and tours for Title I schools with little or no access to basic arts and design education programs.

2 ArtsLife Internships

In 2009, MAD inaugurated paid summer internships for 8 New York City high school students, providing real work experience in the arts. The focus was especially on underserved neighborhoods and at-risk youth; applicants were required to apply formally to the program, submit two letters of support, and have active parental involvement in the program in order to participate.

Undergraduate- and Graduate-Level Internships

This talent incubator—designed for undergraduate- and graduate-level students seeking unpaid internships—offered more than 60 young people the chance to gain valuable work experience in MAD's education, curatorial, development, public relations, marketing, registration, and executive departments; each intern was mentored by a full-time Museum staff member.

3 Professional Development

In 2009, MAD's training programs for New York City teachers were offered weekdays, on the Department of Education's designated professional development days. Three sessions for New York City public school K-12 teachers included participatory lectures and workshops that supplemented the teachers' knowledge of contemporary art, craft, and design practices.

PROGRAMS FOR MUSEUM VISITORS

1 Open Studios

This signature behind-the-scenes view of the craft of making features artists working daily on MAD's sixth floor, completing projects in materials such as ceramics, fiber, mixed media, glass, and metals while talking with visitors about their processes, materials, and concepts. In 2009, 24 artists participated in the program; many worked closely with MAD's artist/educators to enrich the MADlab programs.

Studio Sundays

Intergenerational workshops led by MAD's professional artist/educators—focused on materials, process, making, and learning with your hands—were offered in MAD's classrooms on most Sundays in 2009.

Wednesday Workshops

This new initiative, geared toward seniors, is designed to teach new techniques, explore a medium, and allow participants to complete a product with an artist drawn from MAD's pool of local talent. 2009's three pilot workshops—a polymer clay jewelry session, a felted pouch session, and a session on woven bags—each sold out.

Professional Development Workshops for Artists

MAD collaborated with the nationally recognized organization Creative Capital to provide a series of three sold-out professional development workshops—covering the areas of strategic planning, fundraising, and marketing—for 75 artists.

Cultural Collective

The Collective is a gathering point for groups and organizations that have goals similar to MAD's, but lack the space or resources for public presentations and meetings. In 2009, we presented more than 50 programs throughout MAD—including in our theater—with our 25 partners:

American Craft Magazine • American Institute of Graphic Artists, New York Chapter • Art Matters • Bard Graduate Center • Carnegie Mellon (Entertainment Technology Center) Church of Craft • Creative Capital Design Onscreen • Etsy • Greenwich House Pottery • High 5 • International Association of Art Critics, NY • IRUBNY • La Than Imperial Embroidery • MoreArt • Museum of the Moving Image • Smithsonian National Museum of the American Indian • New York Foundation for the Arts • Performa • Peters Valley Craft Center • Scholastic Achievement Awards • SlowLab • Society of Environmental Graphic Design • Textile Arts Center • World Science Foundation

ONLINE VISITOR EXPERIENCES

The Online Collections Database—a searchable database of the entire MAD permanent collection—and the MADblog, with sections dedicated to curatorial and visitor comments, were the heart of MAD's online experience in 2009. Facebook, Twitter, Youtube, and Flickr coverage were upgraded to serve our more than 600,000 unique visitors, along with web-only content like Moving Paper, a film festival created to complement Slash: Paper Under the Knife.

Dear Friends,

2009 was a stellar year for MAD, and for our mission to collect and conserve important works in our field. Last year, I reported to you that in 2008, more than thirty generous collectors had made a commitment to our field by making gifts of important works of art to MAD. I am delighted that in 2009, 78 collectors, artists, and corporations made donations to our collection—more than double those who had given in the previous year. I thank each of those generous donors, whose names appear herein with their gifts.

Under the leadership of Simona Chazen, Chair of our Collections Committee—working with David McFadden, Chief Curator, Lowery Stokes Sims, Charles Bronfman International Curator, Ursula Ilse-Neuman, Curator of Jewelry, and Jennifer Scanlan, Associate Curator—our collection is growing rapidly in importance as well as size. As you will see, the gifts given in 2009 reflect not just the donors’ spirit of excitement over the new Museum of Arts and Design, but a new consciousness of MAD’s mission and stature. Many were given by artists chosen to participate in MAD’s exhibitions; others by manufacturers whose important work in design is celebrated at 2 Columbus Circle. Still others were created by artists resident in our Open Studios who wished to commemorate their time at MAD by enhancing our collection. And, of course, many are the result of generous collectors who, through their gifts, have offered their expertise to inform a new generation. Each gift to our collection—no matter its provenance—is a public acknowledgment that MAD is the defining institution in contemporary studio craft, art, and design.

On August 4, 2009, MAD unveiled two site-specific artist's benches, Close Contact (Näkontakt)—created by Gustav Kraitz—to either side of MAD's main entrance doors. Ethel, Francine, and Denise LeFrak—members of the LeFrak family, which underwrote the public artwork—were in attendance at the ceremony. The Kraitz benches complement MAD's façade and the adjacent Columbus Circle plaza with its public benches, pedestrian walkways, and fountains.

Dear Friends,

It certainly was a year of firsts...and of remarkable accomplishments. We began 2009 on a high note just months after cutting the ribbon on our beautiful new home at 2 Columbus Circle—but, at the same time, with a huge number of economic challenges: an ever-increasing utility bill...a market in chaos...and a very uncertain funding outlook. Thanks to each and every member of our very talented staff, who worked harder than ever to make 2009 happen, and thanks to you—our wonderful, generous supporters—we ended 2009 at better than break-even...a miracle in the museum world!

2009 was a celebration of so many things...above all, the mesmerizing exhibitions and programs that bring more and more people to 2 Columbus Circle each day to exclaim at the creativity, imagination, innovation, accessibility, and artistic excellence that is the Museum of Arts and Design. It also marked a very special anniversary for me—15 years as Chairman of the Board of this remarkable institution. I was proud and deeply moved to have been honored with MAD's 2009 Visionaries! Award for Lifetime Achievement and to have been in the company of my fellow honorees, the remarkable Shelly Lazarus and legendary Eva Zeisel, during the evening's very memorable gala ceremony.

When I stepped away from the Chairmanship of the Board of Trustees this year, I fondly recalled how great an adventure the last fifteen years have been—and what a wild ride...the most interesting and memorable of my life so far. We've been through some hard times—but we've had our share of triumphs, too! And, along the way, we've managed to grow MAD from a tiny niche museum to a destination location for hundreds of thousands of visitors a year. Throughout my tenure as Chairman, I have been fortunate to have the counsel of Chairman Emeritus and Chairman of the Capital Campaign, Jerry Chazen; former President, Nan Laitman; our new Chairman, Lewis Kruger; and, of course, our fearless Director, Holly Hotchner. I thank each of them for their unwavering support, and for championing our cause so boldly.

2010 marks the beginning of a new phase of involvement with MAD for me—the Chairmanship of our new Global Leadership Council, an international network of cultural and educational partnerships for directing and disseminating information about new trends and developments in art, craft, and design for an international audience. The Council will further MAD's presence in the international community as the leading U.S. institution devoted to the work of the masters of craftsmanship and emerging artists in the decorative arts and design world—a position we have held since our founding in a narrow brownstone on 53rd Street almost 55 years ago.

On to future celebrations—and our growing international partnerships. Cheers to you all—here's to the next fifteen years!

special events

MAD RAISED MORE than $1.5 million through Visionaries! and SOFA NEW YORK 2008 to support its exhibitions and educational programs. Visionaries! celebrated three remarkable women: Board Chairman Barbara Tober, for Lifetime Achievement; Shelly Lazarus, Chairman, Ogilvy & Mather Worldwide; and Eva Zeisel, artist. SOFA NEW YORK featured an opening night preview, open to VIP's by invitation; a festive dinner in the Tiffany Room at the Park Avenue Armory; and a silent auction to benefit MAD.

ON SIX 2009 SUMMER Thursday evenings, MAD hosted MADCrush—a pop-up wine bar created in collaboration with designer Stephanie Goto and Crush Wine, which curated a selection of fine wines—transforming our seventh floor event space into a trendy hot spot. Leading New York City chefs, including Mark Ladner of Del Posto, Scot Conant of Scarpetta and George Mendes of Aldea, presented small plates at selected Thursday nights.

IN THE FALL, A group of young New Yorkers—top designers, artists, architects, celebrity chefs and A-list DJ's—came together in support of MAD to create the first annual MAD Contemporaries PAPERBALL. The evening mixed arts and design, dining, and dancing, and introduced an entirely new audience to MAD. 47 diverse artists and fashion designers created one of a kind paper art works that were installed at the event and sold as part of the fundraiser.

IN 2009, MAD's event spaces were contracted out to more than 40 major clients. Highlights included a two-day press launch for Elizabeth Arden's latest anti-aging serum, with spokesmodel Catherine Zeta-Jones; a weekend with the Discovery Channel; and two Fashion Week shows for Bespoke and Kai Milla, featuring jewelry from The Store at MAD.

membership

IN 2009, MAD captured thousands of members thanks to four targeted direct mail drops in March, September, October, and November which garnered new, upgraded, and re-joining members. MAD also conducted an extensive members' survey, resulting in providing better, more targeted mailings, benefits packages, and potential list exchange partners.

Members enjoyed special events throughout 2009, including exclusive exhibition pre-views; opening receptions; Inner Circle Salons; Architecture + Design Evenings; and two very special Circle members' trips, which continued to set the standard for museum travel: June's Contemporary Pittsburgh and Frank Lloyd Wright's FallingWater, and October's Modern Architecture of Madrid and Barcelona.

marketing and public relations

MAD'S BRAND CONTINUED to strengthen MAD's profile via collateral materials produced by MAD staff as well as targeted print, outdoor, radio, and on-line advertising; e-marketing, including e-newsletters and e-blasts; and marketing and media partnerships. In a new kind of initiative, MAD partnered with AMC television in the pre-promotion of Mad Men with a 10-story image installation covering the north-facing façade over three nights in September. MAD staff and PR consultants Resnicow Schroeder Associates continued to achieve premier editorial placement in a wide variety of local, national, and international A-list publications, websites, and blogs.

Dear Friends,

In September, 2009, we celebrated our one-year anniversary in our spectacular new home at 2 Columbus Circle. Each of you who has ever loved a building—your own home, or a public structure you visit often and come to know intimately—knows that every structure has its own personalities and its own quirks, and is given life by the people who inhabit it.

Now that we are well into 2010, I am very pleased to report that 2 Columbus Circle—The Jerome and Simona Chazen Building—has grown into a lively, spirited place thanks to the hundreds of thousands of visitors who walked through its doors in 2009. MAD is a uniquely welcoming cultural institution, and I am proud that the building itself exudes warmth and hospitality. From The Store at MAD to the Barbara Tober Grand Atrium to the Nanette L. Laitman Galleries to Robert at MAD—Marcia and Alan Docter's Place—MAD is a hit. Those of us fortunate to be part of MAD, and of 2 Columbus Circle, are congratulated daily on the success of the building by friends old and new. We are grateful for their enthusiasm, and delighted that we have created a public space that reflects the unique spirit of New York City.

By the end of 2009, thanks to the many generous donors to our Campaign for Columbus Circle—each of whom is named in this report—our building campaign had reached $86 of its $98 million goal. We are nearing the homestretch and we are at the tipping point to becoming a world class museum. Our work, however, is not done and we have challenges ahead. We are working hard to raise the final $12 million to close the campaign and look forward to your continued support in doing so.

We have also turned our attention to stabilizing our finances by building a robust endowment fund—a special and enduring commitment to the future of MAD, our operations, and the field of contemporary arts, studio craft, and design. Board of Trustees former president and member Nanette L. Laitman made an extraordinarily generous endowment gift of $5 million—adding to a previous matching challenge—and took the lead to establish the “Laitman Society: Securing the Future.” Nan's commitment is exceptional. I thank her and the many donors to our future who will be inspired, through her support, to join her in making sure 2 Columbus Circle remains your museum for many years to come.

Chairman Emeritus, Board of Trustees
Chairman, Capital Campaign for 2 Columbus Circle

the store at MAD

IN 2009, THE STORE AT MAD refined its mission—defining itself as an original voice in New York City offering a distinctive presentation of well-designed craft and design objects and a superior level of customer service—and continued to serve as a premier shopping destination showcasing the work of emerging and established artists. The holiday shopping season saw the first pop-up The Store, opened in partnership with Kate's Paperie on the Upper East Side.

ROBERT

ROBERT, LOCATED ATOP MAD, opened in December 2009. The restaurant was conceived as an extraordinary contemporary art and design experience, curated by one of the partners, Dr. Brian Saltzman. With its delicious contemporary American cuisine and stellar views of Central Park and the Upper West Side, Robert at MAD was an instant hit, and was booked to capacity every night after its opening through the end of the year.

Architects Schefer Design, LLC coordinated Robert's design, which includes lighting designed by San Francisco-based architect Johanna Grawunder (Cherry Blossom, a chandelier installation of LED-lit lucite panels and Tangerines, a series of suspended orange lucite boxes along the restaurant's windowed perimeter). Sculptural steel cocktail tables and a 15-foot communal table bisected by a 6-foot high “sound wave” were created by London-based architect Philip Michael Wolfson; upholstered pieces were designed by modernist master Vladimir Kagan; and a new video art piece, Orbit 2, was created by Jennifer Steinkamp, the first of her works to be displayed on a 103” plasma screen.

The Museum of Arts and Design's Board of Trustees and staff thank all of the generous donors — individuals, corporations, foundations, and government agencies — who supported MAD's ongoing Campaign for 2 Columbus Circle in 2009, and who contributed to our collections, exhibitions, educational and public programs, publications, and general operations in our first full year of operations in our spectacular new home. We are grateful to each and every person named here — your continuing generosity and encouragement are vital to our success.
